Patient feedback

"A Friendly efficient service from reception to dentist. Calm environment with good advice on what I could have done to affect the results I require. No pushy sales pitch. Would definitely recommend"

John Pickles

Winter whitening winner

Mrs. Bentley was our whitening winner back in December and we are looking forward to starting the treatment later this month. The competition was to win whitening for 1 person plus half price for a friend. We are so pleased with the response we got for the competition, thank you all that entered. Make sure to look out for more competitions throughout the year!

Staff Christmas party

The team had a chance to let their hair down at the Christmas party. Nothing puts a smile on our faces more than relaxing and having a good time with an amazing team. We are looking forward to having another great year with the team and our patient's.

Can you really relax in the dental chair?

We understand that many people are nervous about visiting the dentist. Many people have had unpleasant experiences in the past, such as visiting the school dentist. We want to make those negative experiences a thing of the past, and put you entirely at ease.

Sabrina is our sedation dentist. Her approachable personality means that she caters for the most nervous patients, empathizing with the fact that many patients have a lifelong phobia of dentists.

Sedation in dentistry uses medication to help patients relax during dental procedures.

The type of sedation used within the practice is known as conscious IV sedation. You receive the sedative drug through a vein, so it goes to work more quickly. This method allows the dentist to continually adjust the level of sedation.

What are the benefits?

- It reduces anxiety and stress associated with dental treatment
- You will remember little, or nothing about the procedure
- It enables the clinician to undertake the procedure with greater ease and safety
- Intravenous sedation avoids the use of a general anesthetic, and the risks associated with it.

Who Can Have Sedation at the Dentist's?

Sedation is most appropriate for people with a real fear or anxiety that is preventing them from going to the dentist.

Sedation in dentistry may also be appropriate for people who:

- Have a low pain threshold
- Can't sit still in the dentist's chair for long periods of time
- Have very sensitive teeth
- Have a gag reflex
- Need a large amount of dental work completed

If you are one of our many nervous patients, sedation could be an option for you. You would still be awake during the dental treatment, but in a deep state of relaxation. Often patients don't remember having the work done

If you have any questions, please speak to your dentist, or simply call our lovely reception team who will be happy to book you in for a consultation (£35).

Feedback?

Would you like to give feedback on your experience at the practice? We accept feedback with open arms. It is really good within the practice to help us understand and meet your needs, feelings and desires. We always aim to make it the most pleasant experience you can have and take away the dental blues. Reviews can be left if you have a Gmail account online, via Facebook, or hand written to the practice.

Meet the team

Meet Annie- trainee dental nurse

"I have been at the practice for 2 years and 3 months now and it's a great place to work. I am currently working towards my diploma in dental nursing. The part I love most about my role as a dental nurse is the end of treatment results and people seeing a new smile for the first time. It's a great feeling when you know you have assisted the dentist in doing this. In my spare time I like spending time with my family and enjoy long walks."

New technology and treatments

Next month's newsletter will include some great information that you won't want to miss out on! We will be introducing exciting new technology to the practice, and one of our principal dentists will be offering a new treatment which will help you turn back the clock...

Patient feedback

"2 months ago-Cap had come loose from previous dental work carried out elsewhere. Seen same day, excellent friendly service from first call to leaving the surgery. The Dentist was great, he explained the options well and asked good descriptive questions for making sure the pasting of the cap was level. Will use again."
